Don P.X. Convento 1955
Toro Albalá - 75 cl.

Convent and Ginés de Liaban are the names of the two toplines at Toro Albalá. As high-quality as the best Boal Madeiras! Ginés de Liaban was a former soldier who died in the vineyards whose body was found on the estate.

Vinification
More than 60 years of ageing in vats. Just after harvesting, th egraopes are dried on mats until they are raisins. Then these are pressed so as to obtain a very sweet nectar, with a sugar content so high that it cannot ferment completely.

Storage potential
Ageing potential: unlimited. Like a Vintage Madeira.
Once the bottle is opened, the wine will keep at least one year.

To serve
Serve cool (8°C) in a large glass so as to enjoy the aromatic complexity.

Trial analysis
Deep brown, nearly black colour. Oily texture. A very complex mix of aromas; on the palate, a concentrated but elegant wine, thanks to a refined, almost impercitible acidity. Very long finish. This wine will be the idea companion for desserts with chocolate, nuts, caramel and dried fruit. It reminds us of the Gran Reserva 1982, but it is even more complex. WA 98/100.
