Vinification
The grapes are carefully selected from the oldest vineyards. These are often terraced with poor gravel soils rich in loam and lime. Everything is hand-picked and vinification is done in inox cuves with autochthonous yeasts. Great attention is paid to fine extraction and extreme precision. The 16-month élevage is done partly in French barriques (50% new) and partly in a 4000L foeder.

Trial analysis
Deep colour of a young wine. The aromas range between power and elegance, with a hint of wood in the background. Soft and fruity tannins. Very melded with a nice roundness. An engaging and above all modern Rioja with packs of red fruit! No astringent tannins or dominant acids. All balanced with both juiciness and sérieux.

Description domain
