Peña Lobera 2021
Hacienda Solano - 75 cl.

Grand cru from Hacienda Solano. Peña Lobera is a small lieu-dit in the village of La Aguilera. The vines, planted in the early 1920s, grow on sandy soils over a limestone base. One of the leading wines of Ribera del Duero, ideal for those who appreciate an elegant style.

Vinification
Harvested in small crates. Fermentation in cement vats. Only indigenous yeasts are used. A 19-month élevage, divided between 500-liter barrels and cement vats.

Storage potential
To drink from: 2025
At its best: between 2029 and 2035
Until: 2040

To serve
In its youth, it is best to decant. Serve in a large Bordeaux glass.

Trial analysis
Cherry-red colour in the glass. Clean and bright, with a deep red hue. The nose shows soft red and black fruit. Pleasant spice, but above all plenty of floral notes that make the first impression very inviting. On the palate, a firm attack with plenty of substance, yet always elegant, with very discreet oak. Length and complexity throughout.

Wine style:
Continental, powerful gourmet wine

Assembly
Tempranillo (98%), Albillo (2%)

Region:
Castilla y León

Appellation:
D.O. Ribera del Duero

Wine estate:

Description domain

Hacienda Solano is one the the smallest "boutique-wineries" in Ribera del Duero. An organic vineyard of old vines in the village of La Aguilera. For the winemaking, only concrete tanks and old foudres are used, to preserve the elegance of the wine. Elegance being also the motto of Toni Sarrion (Mustiguillo), one of the owners since 2016.
